"I'm speechless. I never expected it!"

So exclaimed Mrs. Rae Horner, of 48 Plumtree Road, Levittown, when told she had won the $50 first prize in the fourth round of the Community Survey being conducted throughout Lower Bucks County by the Courier-Times.

When she regained her breath, Mrs. Horner, mother of nine-year-old Patricia, said she thought "all the advertisements are very good."

Good Evening!

S.O. Battling For GG
More like fall this morning.

For awhile there we thought the apple cider season was going to be passed over entirely and winter was coming in right behind summer.

Apple season here in full force though and why do apples, grown in your own backyard, taste so much better than the store bought variety.

Baseball season closes. So does our partisanship as the Giants move to San Francisco.

Even though we have all the respect in the world for law and order we're just a wee bit sorry that "lynching" party didn't find Mr. Stoneham in the Polo Grounds yesterday.

Lets go Phils!

Meanwhile, pigskin pro season off to a fine start—except for the Eagles. They looked improved though as they dropped a close one to Los Angeles.

Need $100? Hurry up. Tonight is the COINWORD deadline. Fill out the puzzle and get it in the mail quick.

Everyone is doing it.

Pain, says a doctor, strikes a body at its weakest point. Think how many headaches we have. We've come a long way. We outlawed firecrackers and developed the hydrogen bomb.

Watch your driving.

Police Speed Blood Donors In Wee Hours

Four Lower Bucks County police departments teamed up with doctors and Red Cross blood officials to deliver 12 blood donors to Rolling Hills Hospital, Cheltenham Township, during the early hours this morning in a race to save a Levittown woman's life.

Bristol and Falls Township police picked up the sleepy volunteers at their homes and shuttled them to waiting Middletown and Bensalem police cars on a hectic ride to the hospital.

The emergency arose when complications set in as Mrs. Florence Johnson, of 9 Cloister Road, Cobalt Ridge, was giving birth to a seven-pound, 14 ounce daughter.

Transfusions Needed

The woman started to bleed profusely and was in need of transfusions. A hurried check showed that there was only four pints of the necessary type of blood in the banks of Rolling Hills and neighboring hospitals. Her type "O" positive is not rare, but supplies were low.

While Dr. Emanuel Farber, of 417 Mill Street, Bristol, worked over the operating table to save Mrs. Johnson's life, Levittown physician, Dr. Glenn W. Bricker, started a search for donors.

At 2 a.m. he contacted Charles J. Hoyer, chairman of the Levittown and Fairless Hills unit of the Lower Bucks County Chapter of the Red Cross Blood Committee. Hoyer, who is also chairman of the Holy Name Society Blood Donors unit, located volunteers with the right type of blood.

Four men were located and taken in the first group to the hospital. They were: Walter Hopkins, 2 Twig Lane, Thornridge; Arthur W. Carroll, 35 Pinewood Drive, Peter J. Sasgen, 1 Orchard Lane, Oaktree Hollow, all of Levittown and Joseph Kryven of Edgely Ave., Edgely.

More Donors

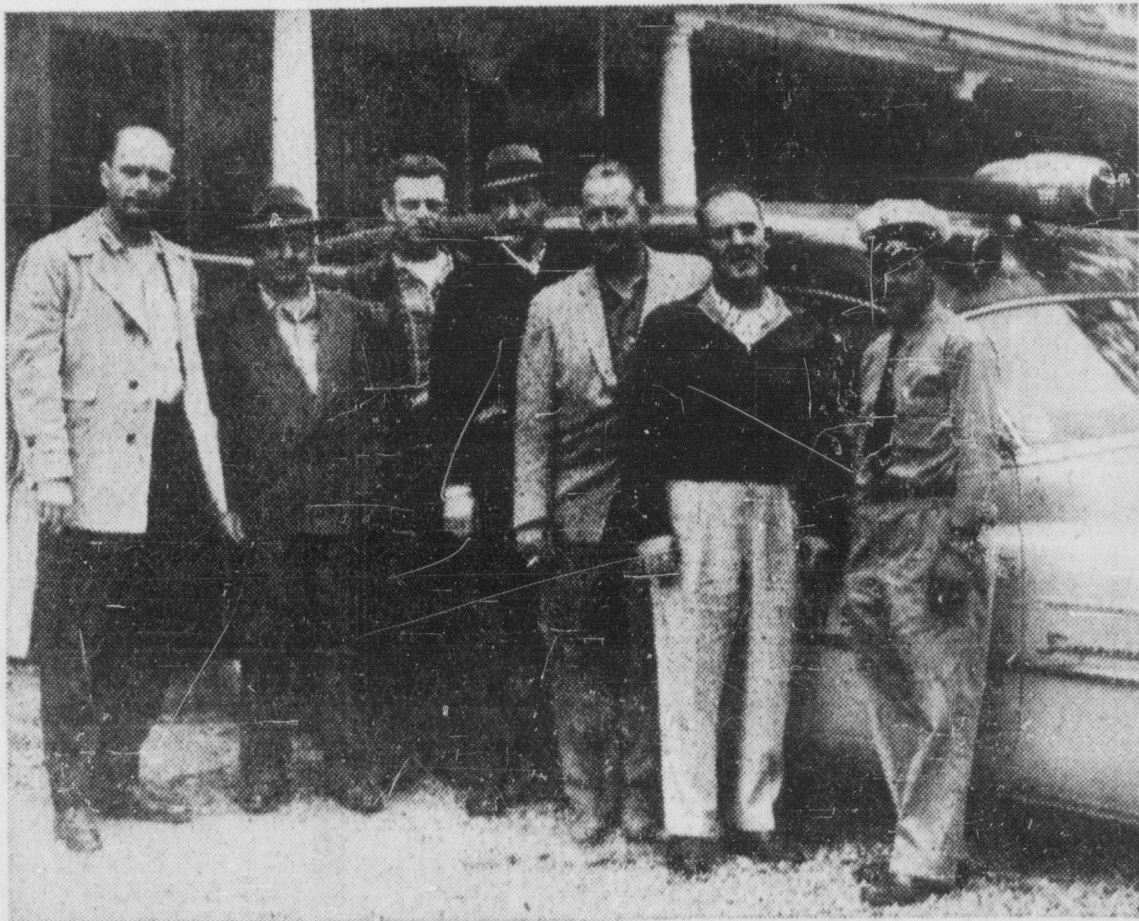

The search for more donors continued. Falls Township and Bristol Township police cooperated to round up three more men and shuttle them to Bensalem police, who transferred them to Dr. Bricker, just above City Line.

This group consisted of Henry Pistilli, of 40 Leisure Lane, Lakeside, Levittown, picked up by Falls Police, and Michael Kral, of 17 Disk Lane, Dogwood and Charles Yeagle, of 48 Orchard Lane, Oaktree Hollow, both of Levittown, picked up by Bristol Township police.

With this group enroute to the hospital, Hoyer contacted four other men and forwarded their names to the Bristol Township Police radio dispatcher.

Firemen Fight Barn Blaze

A $10,000 blaze devoured the Larzelere barn on Beaver Dam Road, near the Turnpike, 4 p.m. Saturday. A huge, tower of black smoke could be seen from all parts of Levittown and Bristol. The barn is part of the estate of the late Harry S. Larzelere. It was little used at the time of the fire. (Courier-Times Photo)

He May Call Legislature Into Session

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. UP — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he has made "no decision yet" on whether to call the Arkansas Legislature into special session to consider closing Central High School.

In one breath, Faubus told reporters that "it is very likely there will be a special session." But a second later, he added:

"There has been no decision yet and it very well could be that there will be no special session."

"Do you personally want a special session?" a reporter asked Faubus.

"Personally, no," the governor replied, "It's a lot of work and a terrific strain."

He had said previously that he was under "pressure" from members of the Legislature to call the session.

He made these statements to reporters as he arrived at his office at the state capitol. Earlier, he had implied to a United Press reporter, who joined him for breakfast at the governor's mansion, that he was cooling off on the idea of a special session.

At troop-guarded Central High, the second week of integrated education began peacefully.

Jayne's Walk Takes Over London Papers

LONDON (UP) — Jayne Mansfield may or may not be putting on weight, but all of her still dominated the front pages of London newspapers today.

The blonde Hollywood actress has been busting out all over the newspapers since her arrival last week. British newspapers just can't seem to get enough of her.

The London Sunday Pictorial devoted its entire front page to a closeup rear-view photograph of Miss Mansfield. The idea, according to a columnist, was to illustrate that "male interest is shifting."

"While Jayne was bent on helping the other photographers to picture the '41' in her 41-35-35 statistics," the pictorial said, "our cameraman recorded this glimpse of the '35'."

It quoted Miss Mansfield that "Male interest is shifting."

"Men now like to see girls walking away from them, if you know what I mean," she was quoted.

On its back page, the Sunday Pictorial printed a very small but revealing photograph of Miss Mansfield from the front. Close scrutiny of the photographs displayed no extra pound-

Hoffa Foes Appeal To Court To Stop Election

WASHINGTON (UP)—Thirteen rank and file Teamsters appealed to the Supreme Court today to prevent the union from holding its national elections this week.

They asked the high court to reinstate a federal district court injunction against holding the election.

The case must be taken for action to a single justice, as the court is still in summer recess. The lawyer for the 13 Teamsters said, however, that selection of a justice is up to the court and not to them.

A court aide said the case probably will go to Chief Justice Earl Warren, who administers the District of Columbia circuit. Warren is now in Washington.

The Supreme Court clerk's office said the Teamster Union's attorney, Martin F. O'Donoghue, has indicated he will file arguments against the petition this afternoon. Warren has the right to act without holding an oral hearing. There was no immediate indication of what procedure would be followed.

Meanwhile in Miami Beach the Teamsters Union accepted an offer by the Senate Rackets Committee to make available more evidence challenging credentials of delegates to the unions convention opening today.

Dave Beck, retiring under fire as president of the big union, wired committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) that such information "may be helpful even at this late date."

LCA Petitions Falls For Govt. Survey

The Levittown Civic Association will present a petition to the Falls Township Board of Supervisors for a survey "to consider the desirability and feasibility" of uniting Levittown's four municipalities in some form of consolidated government.

Joseph Segal, president of the LCA, said the petition will be presented to the board at tomorrow's meeting at 8 o'clock at the township municipal building.

Segal said Bristol Township has approved the petition and has already set up a committee to make such a study.

"We are already making plans for approaching Middletown Township and then Tullytown Borough

United Fund Workers Poised To Start Drive

With hundreds of volunteer workers poised for action, the Bucks County United Fund is under way with its 1958 campaign for funds for 17 health, welfare and recreation services in Bucks County.

"Never before," said Thomas Coe, campaign chairman and president of the Peoples National Bank, "have we come to the opening day with such an enthusiastic well organized campaign organization. The leaders of our five divisions, their captains and workers have literally surpassed themselves in preparing for the October 1 kick-off date, and we are confident that the citizens of Bucks County will respond in greater measure than ever before."

Combining the appeals of 17 separate services in a single united campaign, the Bucks County United Fund has been given a goal of $505,000 to meet the minimum 1958 needs of these services, Mr. Coe announced.

"Exceed Goal"

"This is a minimum—a goal based on the demands we ourselves are making on these services every day of the year," he stated. "On the basis of the tremendous amount of work already accomplished by our volunteers I feel convinced we're going to meet and exceed this goal."

"From division leaders all the way down through our organization to solicitors in our plants and communities, we've been getting great cooperation and enthusiasm — and that spells success in any endeavor."

Key Leaders

Key leaders in the 1958 United Fund Campaign in Lower Bucks County are E. R. Miller, U. S. Steel, Industrial and Commercial Divisions; County Commissioner John Welsh, Public Employee Division; Medill Bair, Superintendent of Pennsylvania Schools, School Division; Otto Grupp, III, Insurance executive, Pacesetter Division; and Harry Danner, Fidelity - Philadelphia Trust Company, and Mrs. Edward M. Linforth, well known civic leader, co-chairmen of the Community Division.

In upper Bucks, Paul "Mike" Bittner, Lemmon Pharmacal Company, is campaign chairman. His division leaders are J. P. Perry, Eastern Roto Craft, Industrial and Commercial; Melvin Mack, Superintendent of Palisades Schools, School Division; County Commissioner John Welsh, Public Employee; and John Mason of Bean, Mason and Eyer and a vice-president of the United Services Federation, Community Division.

Plavin Chairman Of Trades Section

Leon Plavin, well-known Bristol merchant, has adopted the chairmanship of the Service Trades Section in the 1958 United Fund campaign, which gets under way tomorrow. The appointment was announced by Industry and Commercial Chairman E. R. Miller.

"Mr. Plavin has done an exceptional job in organizing this important division of the campaign organization," Miller stated. "He has picked a fine team of captains, and their soliciting groups are already at work."

Plavin is owner of the Auto Boys Department Store, Bristol, Pa. Aside from his long-established business firm, he is known for his activities in bowling, and is currently president of the Bristol Major Bowling League.

With his wife Freda, and three children, Jerry, 13, Stan, 15, and Jules, 9, Plavin lives at 67 Snowball Drive, Levittown.

In accepting the challenge for this part of the $505,000 United Fund campaign, Plavin announced that eight leading area businessmen have joined him as captains in the Service Trades Division. They are:

Monroe J. Lanes, Levittown Service Center; Herman K. Encke, Encke-Eddington Signs;

LEON PLAVIN

Philip J. Powell, Jr., Cooper Sales Co., Bristol; George Molden, Jr., Molden Funeral Service, Bristol; Elmer F. Storms, Sr., Bucks County Printing House, Bristol; Marion E. Whippis, Whippis Photography, Bristol; Michael A. Pirulli, Levittown Taxi Service; and Vincent R. Dutcavich, Bristol Recreation Center.

Faubus

The Negro children arrived at the school at 8:18 a.m. c.s.t. in an Army station wagon, escorted as usual by two jeeps of paratroopers. One soldier, with a pistol strapped on his belt, escorted them from the car into the building. A small group of white students stood on the steps to watch their arrival, but made no demonstration.

About 200 paratroopers, less than half the number who drove back sullen crowds last Wednesday, ringed the school this morning. The naked bayonets which had been fixed on their M1 rifles last week were conspicuously absent.

No crowds assembled on the streets near the school. The novelty had worn off the spectacle of armed troops ringing the high school, and Little Rock's interest was shifting to political and legal phases of the controversy.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus was expected to decide today whether he will call the state Legislature into special session. He said Saturday that a special session might enact legislation aimed at closing Central High School by cutting off state tax funds.

This ordinance grew out of the drowning of three Levittown children in a gravel pit last July 9.

We Have Everything Here!

Today a completely new and different Good Will Community Survey of Shopping Conditions starts. (See details on Page 12). The question being asked this week is: "Do you ever feel that you need to shop in some other city?"

The reason for this question is that occasionally some shoppers get the notion that they must go elsewhere to buy something. We merchants want to know, "Why?"

We are positive that we have it all here. We can demonstrate that to you. We can also give you advice and service.

You are being asked this question this week so that we can learn any reasons why anyone feels that they should go to any other city to shop.

Then we can explain to you why we can serve you better right here.

It is just not possible for any store to explain in their ads about everything which they have to offer—but if you will indicate anything you think you cannot find here—then we can tell you where to find it.

Readers have been most enthusiastic about the opportunity offered in this Good Will program to present their ideas that will help towards better shopping conditions.

This program is for your benefit. You alone know what you think. Do your share. Help yourself by being helpful. Start today.

Steelworkers' Children To Receive College Aid

2 Candidates

Rap Falls

'Moving Law'

Falls Township Democrats, Paul A. Terrells, candidate for tax assessor, and David H. Struble, candidate for tax collector, today called on the Falls Township Supervisors to consider repeal of the so-called "move in, move out" ordinance.

In Bensalem Township, Masiv Palouian campaigned for several weeks until the supervisors of the township killed a proposal for such a law.

Terrells and Struble called the ordinance "un-American, undemocratic and unconstitutional" and vowed to work for repeal of the law.

The ordinance was first passed and approved in 1955. It provides that all persons register at the township building before moving in or out. Violation calls for a $50 fine.

Terrells and Struble stated they can perform the duties of assessor and tax collector "without the need of this vicious law."

Letter Turned

Over To FBI

Bristol Township Police Chief John R. Stewart said today the FBI has the "threatening letter sent to a Levittown man, who has been protesting the move of a Negro family to the community."

Eldred L. Williams of 20 Dewberry Lane, Dogwood Hollow, told police he received the letter on Friday.

Williams is caretaker of a home, behind the William Myers house. Parties and large gatherings were held in the house several nights last week until they were stopped by Bristol Township authorities.

Lights were on in the house last night but there were no other signs of any persons inside. Two State Police cars were stationed outside.

Lewis Wechsler, of 39 Deepgreen Lane, a friend and next door neighbor of the Negro family, reported that he had received a $5 bill and encouraging letter as the result of paint smeared on his home. The initials "K K K" were painted on the outside shingles last week.

Wechsler posted the letter and money on the outside of his house in the same spot where a defamatory circular had been hung. The letter stated "Thank God there are men like you."

Fancy knives and rings and money were taken from the Tullytown home of Warren Salt, Bordentown Road, yesterday by burglars who entered an open cellar window.

Chief John Walterick, of Tullytown police, said the theft was committed between 1 and 3:30 p.m., while Salt, his wife and children were out.

1,700 Get Flu Shots At Medical Center

Nearly 1,700 Lower Bucks County residents received Asian Flu vaccine inoculations at a clinic sponsored by the Nottingham VFW Post, Saturday and Sunday.

It was the first public flu vaccine clinic to be held in the area. Facilities of the Lower Bucks Medical Center in Nottingham were utilized.

The clinic will be held again this Saturday and Sunday but at a different location. The new site will be announced later. The hours, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., will remain the same.

George Palmer, VFW chairman for the clinic, reported the staff of the medical center will still cooperate in the administration of the vaccine shots. The fee is $1.

Response to the clinic was heaviest on Saturday. A line was formed but it moved rapidly. Later in the day and all day Sunday, a steady stream of persons reported at the clinic but there were no lines outside the building.

Palmer said the divided dose method will continue to be used until the post is able to get a big enough supply of the vaccine to administer a full dose.

Dr. Harry Rudman, post surgeon and a member of the staff at the medical center, supervised the program.

Dr. George Corio

Services Scheduled

Funeral services for Dr. George A. Corio, 58, of 11 Lawn-dale Ave., Lower Merion, Township, who died Saturday at his home, will be held at 8 a.m. tomorrow from the Cellini and Rock Funeral Home, 931 Princeton Ave., Trenton.

A solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. at St. Joachim's Church. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock.

Dr. Corio, head of the Ear, Nose and Throat Department at St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, had been ill with pneumonia for less than a week.

Dr. Corio is survived by his wife, the former Grace Mowbray; two brothers, Henry, of Princeton, and Michael, of North Arlington; and a sister, Mrs. Rose DeLorenzo, of Washington State.

Fund To Start

Off With

$1,000,000

CHICAGO (UP) — United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald, has outlined a new "progressive" policy for the union including a million dollar education fund for steelworkers' children.

McDonald's announcement yesterday followed angry demands, calling for the ouster of the union's dues protest group, a faction led by Donald C. Rarick, a Pittsburgh grievance committeeman.

McDonald, rising to address approximately 1,000 members of the Chicago district conference, outlined new benefits planned for members.

At the top of the list was a fund from which union members' children will be able to borrow to help pay college expenses. McDonald said the fund will be started off with one million dollars.

"Is that progressive?" the white-haired McDonald asked when the applause stopped.

Other benefits being planned, according to McDonald, include: television and radio shows to keep steelworkers informed about union activities and life after-retirement programs for union members.

Tullytown Firemen Busy Over Weekend

Small fires kept the Tullytown Fire Co. busy on five calls over the weekend.

The firemen were called to the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near the North Shore Supply Co., Route 13 at 10:30 a.m. Saturday to put out a fire of railroad ties. Then at 11 a.m. they put out a similar fire nearby.

At midnight Saturday night the Tullytown fire engines were joined by Fallsington and Levittown No. 1 companies in fighting a fire of scrapwood at the dump beyond the end of N. Main St. Later Sunday morning the Tullytown firemen had to return.

Chief Paul Grady Jr., said no arson was indicated in any of the fires.

Hills Driver Hits Car As Brakes Fail

A 17-year-old Fairless Hills driver ran into the side of a car parked in a driveway Saturday night after his brakes failed as he turned a corner.

Kenneth Ross, 217 Yorkshire Lane, told Falls Township Police Officers Joseph Ruski and Edmund Brown his brakes "didn't react" as he came around the street.

He veered left and bounced through the lawn of William Basanavage, 219 Stanford Road, felling two shrubs, and halted after hitting the side of the parked car.

Police said the boy's father promised to pay for the damage to the lawn and the parked car.

Iowa Tests Given Pennsbury Pupils

The Iowa Tests of Educational Development, called a sort of "geiger counter for the discovery of precious human resources," were administered to all 12th grade students at Pennsbury High School by Miss Mary Dwyer, of the Guidance Department last week.

These tests are designed to measure fundamental general abilities with greater stress on what the student is able to do than on what he knows. They do not measure whether a student can recite isolated facts, but rather, whether he can apply what he already knows, and whether he can use effectively new facts and ideas.

Lifetime Learning
"Tests with such an extensive scope as this," Miss Dwyer said, "measure the learning that results from a lifetime of educational experiences—both in and out of school. Such factors as learning potential and cultural advantages in the home and community influence the scores as well as his total school experience."

The greatest value of the Iowa Test results, she pointed out, lies in their provision of specific information about the needs and abilities of individual pupils. Each student receives his scores and a pamphlet explaining what each test measures and what his scores indicate. The results are another valuable aid in locating the able or gifted student who should go on to higher education.

These results are also used by the teachers in the various subject areas to group youngsters for differentiated learning activities. They also serve to suggest the need for further emphasis in specific areas. In this regard they are studied by both grade level faculties and curriculum groups.

The Play's The Thing At Pennsbury

Just in case students think they have been seeing unusual things around Pennsbury High School recently — you're right. That WAS Ken Martin trying to chase an imaginary fly that aroused a pretended temper.

Sure, Dick Arbittell took a phantom lady to dinner and tried to mooch enough ghostly cash from her to pay an invisible check. Mm-hmm, Peggy Krecji tried the season's latest out-of-this-world hats on a fussy customer who wasn't there. And Sandy Billec cried over practically nothing at all — just a limp gym towel!

Now, we'll let you in on the real story. Students are doing their homework. That's right! Homework! Pantomimes were the assignment in Mrs. Joyce Bourg's dramatics class. The questionable antics were assigned as the first participating effort on the part of the embryonic thespians.

Raised eyebrows, clenched fists, or any of the gestures that are a part of feigned emotion are a part of a good cause — and grade — in dramatics class.
